Working with a selection of vintage linens and found objects, participants are introduced to various handwork techniques from the couture garment industry, which can later be applied to the wearable art or art quilt form. Using listing and free writing techniques, the artist will first work with students to develop conceptual ideas in their sketchbooks before learning various methods of working with text, vintage cloth and found objects. Students will complete a 12" × 12" unique sampler.

Artist will provide a selection of embroidered vintage linens from The Inheritance Project and a selection of found objects to choose from, however participants are encouraged to bring linens and objects that are meaningful to them.
